This Earth Day event is part of the ongoing series, Exploring a Contemplative Ecology

Climate Change at the End of Your Fork: Daily Choices, Global Impact

Sinsinawa Mound

Saturday, April 23
9 a.m. – 3 p.m.

In this daylong Earth Day retreat and workshop, we'll explore the intersections of our faith, the food we eat, and the reality of climate change. Rooted in prayer and song, we'll find the strength and courage in our stories of connection to take practical steps to help solve climate change at the end of our forks. A locally-sourced meal is included. Registration is $25.

Registration ends April 18

Facilitators

Eric Anglada is the Coordinator of Ecological Programming at Sinsinawa Mound and a member of the Catholic Worker movement.

Sarah Paulos is the Program and Outreach Coordinator for Iowa Interfaith Power & Light, created Cool Congregations, an earth stewardship program to help congregants reduce their energy use as an act of faith, and Food, Faith, Climate: Connecting the Dots, examining the connection between our food practices and climate change, and how our faith traditions call us to respond with practical solutions.

Katrina Richardson is currently studying ministry at the University of Dubuque Theological Seminary.

Carolyn Kennedy is the former director of the Food, Faith and Farming Network and the former pastor of Mazomanie United Church of Christ, Wisconsin.

Food, Faith and Farming Network
Connecting Community, Land, and People

Wisconsin Interfaith Power & Light

Iowa Interfaith Power & Light

Sinsinawa Mound Center

585 County Road Z
Sinsinawa, WI
www.sinsinawa.org/moundcenter